A supplemental activity for Sex is Fun! the podcast

This PDF contains several questions to help you and your partner determine the sexual activities that you might both enjoy together. Pretend as though your partner had asked you to engage in the following activities and answer either with a YES (you would to at least try it), NO (you would not want to try it) or with a MAYBE (you may be willing to try it under absolutely perfect conditions).

Honesty is very important to both you and your partner's sexual fulfillment. This is not the time to be shy. If you think you might be willing try something, now is the time to let your partner know. After you have both finished, go over the list together and let your partner know how you answered. If you both answered YES to an activity, you may now make plans to try it. If you both answered NO, just move on to the stuff that you both liked. If either of you answered MAYBE, find out just what it would take to make the perfect conditions necessary to try the activity. If one of you answered YES and the other answered NO, find out why you differ on the activity. Perhaps through patient communication, you may both find a way to make each other happy through bartering with other activates or perhaps through mutual sexual fantasy.

The only rule here is that neither partner is allowed to judge or get angry with the other partner because of their answer. Remember you are only answering the question as though your partner asked you to perform the activity. If you answer YES it doesn't necessarily mean that you are even particularly aroused by the activity. It just means that you are not physically or emotionally opposed to the activity.
